

I used to think,
"I could never give my baby away!"

I mean, I didn't want to be pregnant. I'm not ready for this baby, but adoption? I didn't know what I wanted to do, so I thought it might help to learn about open adoption before I decide.

With adoption today, I can pick the parents for my child. I can get pictures and updates as my child grows, if I want. I can make sure my baby has the kind of life I want her to have, the kind of life I can't provide right now. And I can still be a part of it!

I also learned that adoption is a decision both my baby and I can be proud of.

Learn the truth about adoption. It could be the right choice for you. Your baby is trusting you to make the best choice for both of you.

You might think...

*"I could never give my baby
away."*

THE TRUTH IS...

Adoption isn't giving your baby away.

Adoption is giving your baby a life, a stable family, and a future. Whether you're still pregnant or your baby is already here, you should know you're never stuck. The truth is you have options! The choices you make today will affect your child's future, as well as your own.

Women choosing adoption play an active part in every step of the adoption process. You can customize your child's adoption plan.

With Open Adoption you make the choices, such as:

- You choose your child's parents. There are families of all races ready to adopt.
- You can talk to, email or text, and meet the adoptive parents before your baby is born or before the adoption takes place!
- You decide how things go at the hospital. You can see and hold your baby. You can even name your baby!
- You can choose to have on-going contact with your child and the adoptive parents after the adoption, including photos, phone calls, emails, texts, and even visits!
- You can make plans for your future and be proud that you gave your baby the life you wanted her to have.
